Description	Flora and Taxonomy is a class that introduced students to the science of identifying and classifying plants. An essential aspect of this course is the use of living material for identification and to learn the art of documentation through preparation of material for herbaria. I am requesting use of several areas for collection by 22 students (ie. up to 22 individual specimens of some species). I anticipate collection of very common material. The class would visit the preserve up to three times from late August through the end of October.
